Introduction

Since the advent of the “recycling law,” the Municipal Waste, Planning, Recycling and Waste Reduction Act (Act 101) that was enacted in 1988, we have attained a recycling rate in Bucks County of about 35 percent. The legislation addresses the residential recycling of paper, food and beverage containers (glass, aluminum, steel and plastic) and many materials generated in commercial establishments. However, there are still many products and materials that can be reused and recycled that are not addressed by the legislation.

The Guide to Recycling in Bucks County was first published in 1997 during a time when recycling efforts had attained great success. Curbside recycling programs were in place and the amount of material being discarded into the municipal waste stream was significantly reduced. As a result, many people were searching for ways to divert even more material from the waste stream that were not typically part of the curbside programs. In response to these inquiries, this guide was developed to provide suggestions that would aid in the reuse and recycling of many products and materials. These materials typically require the ‘owners’ to take it upon themselves to locate a facility or program that will accept such items for reuse or recycling. This guide was designed to assist them in doing that.

Now, ten years after the preparation of the first Guide to Recycling in Bucks County, it is necessary to update it in order to include new information on where many products and materials may be taken for reuse or recycling. Whether measuring by the number of units or total weight, one waste category in particular has increased at a greater rate than any other --- electronics. Old computers and their peripherals, televisions, and cell phones are being disposed of at an alarming rate. The National Safety Council estimates that by the end of 2007, Americans will have discarded as many as 500 million computers. Due to the hazardous components in many electronics, most notable being lead, old computers and portable televisions have now become a regular part of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Regional Household Hazardous Waste Collection Program.

Many household materials are considered hazardous and are no longer permitted to be disposed in the local landfill. Therefore, individuals who chose to purchase these materials need to accept some of the responsibility for their proper disposal. Whether it is that next computer, cell phone, or a non-recyclable helium tank to fill a bouquet of party balloons, the ultimate disposal of that product should be considered prior to its purchase. We cannot expect that “they” will provide a ready means of disposal for a product just because its owner is ready to dispose of it. There may not always be a readily available facility to accept our particular waste.

The Guide to Recycling in Bucks County is designed to provide information and ideas on how and where to properly recycle, or dispose of, if appropriate, a variety of materials typically generated from residences that, at the very least, are reusable or recyclable, but may also have potentially harmful impacts on the environment if they are simply thrown into the regular trash.

Included in the guide is information about:

- what to do with old motor oil and antifreeze
- what to do with old tires
- what is the best way to handle “sharps” (syringes) produced in the home?
- what should I do with my old computer?
- should I recycle all household batteries?
- how to properly dispose of old appliances
- what to do with a variety of other hard to recycle items

After you have had an opportunity to use the guide, if you have any questions, or suggestions and comments for future updates of this booklet, we would like to hear from you.

It is not expected that this guide will provide the answer for every possible material that is destined to be disposed of in the residential trash. But it will help in providing some direction on how to handle many of these products and materials.

The information will provide you with some specific ways to recycle materials that may have been considered nonrecyclable as well as cause the reader to re-evaluate their current buying habits. A review of this guide will also show that some items, due to their hazardous characteristics, need to be stored until the next household hazardous waste collection program. Which only serves to emphasize the need to buy only what you need of a product for the job at hand?

Recycling Guide

Bucks County

2008

AEROSOL CANS

Empty

- Many curbside programs will accept empty aerosol cans in with the commingled recyclables. Contact your hauler or municipality for details.
- If not recyclable – dispose of in regular trash.

Not empty

- Use up according to label instructions, and, if applicable, recycle can as above.
- Donate to a local organization, if contents are usable paint (i.e. local Theater groups)
- See "Household Hazardous Waste"

AMMUNITION/EXPLOSIVES

Small Caliber

For suggestions on how to safely dispose of small caliber ammunition call your local police department or check the Yellow Pages of your telephone directory under —"Guns & Gunsmiths." Some gun shops will accept small caliber ammunition. Call first to determine if they will accept your materials before handling or transporting.

- Dimmings Gun shop, Chalfont, 215-822-8240
- Quinby's Gun shop, Dublin, 215-249-1144
- Target World, Chalfont, 215-822-3900
- Pistol People, Bensalem, 215-245-7211
- Classic Pistol, Southampton, 215-953-7264

Large caliber ordnance, "black powder" or other munitions — Call 911.

ANIMAL WASTE

Dog or Cat Waste

- Place in sealed container or plastic bag and dispose of in regular trash collection.
- Do not place in backyard compost pile.

Manure

- Contact Bill McFadden, USDA, 215-453-9527

APPLIANCES (WHICH NORMALLY CONTAIN FREON – NON-WORKING)

Air conditioners, dehumidifiers, and refrigerators

Appliances that contain or once contained Freon, whether there is Freon in the system now or not, are handled separately from regular trash.

- Contact your trash hauler (see yellow pages under "rubbish") to obtain information on the cost and procedure for collection. Some will accept an appliance with Freon, others will take only if the Freon has been properly removed by a certified HVAC technician.
- For certified Freon removal contact a certified refrigeration repair company. Some will provide this service for a fee. See Yellow Pages - "Appliances – Major - Repair" or "Refrigerator & Freezer - Service and Repair."

(Working Appliances)

The RePlace Discount Store, Allentown, 610-709-0205

www.goodshepherdrehab.org/work-services/the-replace-store.asp

“I’m moving and I can’t take this stuff with me.”

There is no site or facility where a resident can take products such as poisons (insecticides, herbicides), solvents (gasoline, kerosene, paint thinner), oil-based paint, etc. for proper disposal. The company that we work with at our scheduled Household Hazardous Waste (HHW) Collection days are regulated such that they are not permitted to accept material transported to their facility by the public. It is suggested that someone who has HHW, and must get rid of it now, find a friend or relative who is willing to accept the material for the purpose of using it or storing it until a future collection event. Dates, times and locations of upcoming collection events may be obtained from the Bucks County Planning Commission (215-345-3400) or the Bucks County HHW website: www.buckscounty.org (click on “Recycle in Bucks,” under the heading “How Do I...”)

PAINT AND RELATED

If useable, check with local theater groups (see “Theaters” in Yellow Pages) or civic organizations that may accept donations.

Habitat for Humanity – See Appendix E - may accept unopened paint only (latex or oil)

Latex paint (water-based)

- For small quantities, remove lid and let water evaporate. Dried paint may be disposed in regular trash. Empty can may either be disposed in regular trash or, in some programs, included with recyclables. Contact your local hauler for details.
- For larger quantities, in a small plastic container lined with newspaper, mix paint with absorbent (i.e. kitty litter). Roll up newspaper containing the now non-liquid paint and place in plastic trash bag for curbside disposal.

Oil-based paint

- Use up, donate, or see “Household Hazardous Waste.”

Lead-based paint

- How should it be removed, collected, stored, and disposed?
 - Contact Bucks County Department of Health (215) 345-3318 or
 - Call the Lead Hotline (800) 424-LEAD or (888) 532-3547 for information, list of certified contractors, and laboratories able to analyze paint and dust samples.

Paint thinner

- Filter through cloth, and reuse, or see “Household Hazardous Waste.”

Empty paint cans

Some recycling programs provide for the recycling of empty paint cans. Check with company collecting recyclables. If not acceptable, dispose of in regular trash.

Wood preservatives, varnish, primer

- Use up, donate or see “Household Hazardous Waste.”

PESTICIDES

Herbicides, fungicides, insecticides, weed killers, poisons (liquid, solid, or aerosol)

- Use up according to label instructions.
- Donate to friend or neighbor.
- See “Household Hazardous Waste.”

PHOTO CHEMICALS

Diluted chemicals may be flushed down a sanitary sewer. Do not flush chemicals if you have an on-lot septic system.

2008 Southeastern Pennsylvania Household Hazardous Waste and Old Computer Collection Program

Bring your household hazardous wastes and old Computers to one of the following scheduled events

What can you bring?

As many as three old Computers and up to 25 gallons or 220 pounds of Hazardous Products. Read the label! Hazardous Products will have cautionary words on the label. For example: Danger, Warning, or Caution. Other words or phrases that can signal hazardous products include: poisonous, hazardous, combustible, flammable, corrosive, volatile, caustic, irritant, explosive, toxic, use with adequate ventilation, or avoid inhaling.

If there are no words indicating it is a hazardous product, it likely isn't.

Why?

Household products containing toxic chemicals, like pesticides, oil-based paints, solvents, cleaning products, weed killers and automotive batteries can be a threat to people and the environment if improperly discarded. Never throw these materials into the trash, as the toxic chemicals may harm sanitation workers, or result in fires in collection vehicles. It is also not safe to pour them into a sink or storm drain as they can end up in the environment polluting the air, water, or soil.
