

This Could be You!

During the Great Backyard Bird Count!

February 12-15, 2016

Audubon

Presidents Day Weekend!

This citizen science program is FUN, FREE, and EASY! All ages can participate. And it really makes a difference...what's in your backyard or schoolyard adds to overall bird conservation knowledge!

All you have to do is look out your window for 15 minutes or more and see what birds are in your backyard or at your feeder(s) during the four days of the Great Backyard Bird Count. Count those birds on any or all of the four days of the event, and submit your numbers online (one checklist per day).

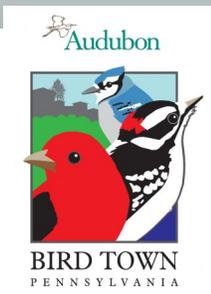

For more info:

<http://pa.audubon.org/pa-counts>

(or www.birdcount.org)

Know these? If so, you already know about 1/4 of the common birds at your feeder!

Photos by Howard B. Eskin

Disclaimer: We can't guarantee a chickadee, or any bird for that matter, will perch on your head during the count. And since the Great Backyard Bird Count can be conducted from the warmth of the indoors, it's highly unlikely.